The Solitary Reaper

- William Wordsworth

Introduction :

William Wordsworth (1770-1850) was a major English Romantic poet. He was a founder of the Romantic movement of English literature. He was often called a nature poet because of his emphasis on the connection between humans and the natural world. He finds friend, philosopher and guide in nature. He became widely successful and was named poet laureate of England in 1843.

Wordsworth presented the common subjects uncommonly in the common man's language through his poetry. The present common poem is a lyrical ballad. It is about a girl who works alone in the field. She cuts and binds the sheaves of corn. She sings a very bad song. The poet does not understand the meaning of her song as she sings in a language unfamiliar to him. She sings a melancholy song but the poet enjoys its melody and thinks it eternal. The song echoes in his imagination even after it was heard no more.

SeminarThe Secret

- V.V. Shirwadkar (Kusumagraj)

Introduction.

Vishnu vaman Shirwadkar (1912 - 1999) popularly know as Kusumagraj, is a prominent marathi poet, playwright, novelist and short story writer. He was a great humanist. He was BA in marathi and English. He worked as a screenplay writer and also as a journalist. He was recipient of Sahitya Akademi Award for Natsamrat in 1974, padma Bhushan in 1991 and the Jnanpith Award in 1987. His writing mainly focuses on freedom, justice and emancipation of the deprived.

The poem 'The Secret' is an expression of 'unheard melody' or rather 'unplayed melody'. It is translated into English by prabhakar machwe. The poet has a secret which he is determined never to share with anyone. The poem is deceptively simple as it is having a great meaning.
